—Ernie Anastos, Emmy Award-winning news anchor

AFTER enchanting royals in London, performing for packed houses across Asia and wowing sold-out audiences throughout North America, Shen Yun is returning to Lincoln Center with an entirely new show for 2013. Eleven performances only!

AUTHENTICALLY CHINESE, MADE IN NEW YORK

Shen Yun cannot be seen in China today, where traditional culture has been mostly destroyed under communist rule. Yet, based in New York, Shen Yun has become a global cultural sensation, bringing the virtues and wisdom of traditional Chinese culture to millions of people across five continents.

New York's state budget on track and time — again

- New budget closes $1.3 billion budget gap with no new taxes
- Would be third consecutive on-time budget from Gov. Cuomo
- Budget has $1 billion in new tax cuts to middle-class families

Gov. Andrew Cuomo and top lawmakers outlined on Thursday an agreement for the state budget that closes a $1.3 billion gap with no new taxes or fees.

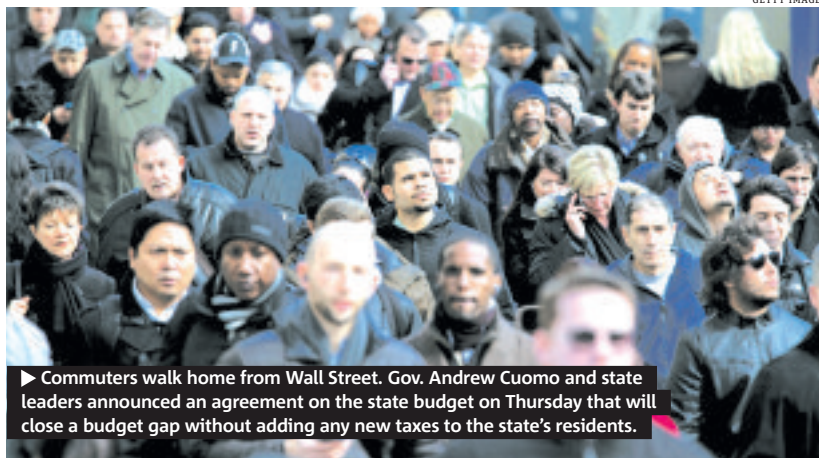

This state budget, if it passes by the April 1 deadline, will be the third consecutive on-time budget under Cuomo.

New York has not had a budget on track this far in advance of deadline since 1976. The last time there were three consecutive on-time budgets was in 1984.

The budget affords $1.125 billion in new tax cuts to middle-class families over three years, as well as a new child tax credit starting at $350 per year for three years for families earning between $40,000 and $300,000.

It also includes nearly $800 million over three years in tax breaks for businesses, a move the lawmakers apparently hope will "help reverse New York's longstanding reputation as the tax capital of the nation."

'Anti-Bloomberg' bill passes in Mississippi

Mississippi Gov. Phil Bryant has passed a law people are calling the "anti-Bloomberg bill," CNN reports, prohibiting city or local governments from enacting regulations like the controversial drink-size ban in New York City that was recently shot down by a judge.

According to a recent Central for Disease Control report, Mississippi has the highest rate of obesity in the country, at 34.9 percent.

New York state's obesity rate was 24.5 percent as of 2011.

The New York Post recently depicted Mayor Michael Bloomberg as Mary Poppins hovering over the city, a play on his "Nanny Bloomberg" nickname. The Mississippi lawmaker who sponsored the bill, state Sen. Tony Smith, is also a restaurant owner.

"If the market demands that I serve a more healthy food, I'll do that to meet the market demand," Smith said. "But ... why should I risk my capital, my hard work, my efforts that I've put into building a restaurant on the thinking of what a government official thinks?"

Pataki endorsed rival candidate and supermarket mogul John Catsimatidis.

The GOP delegation of the City Council came out for Lhota on Tuesday.

Councilman Dan Halloran said, "No incoming mayor will have had as much experience upon entering office as Joe Lhota does right now," and Councilman Eric Ulrich based his endorsement on the belief that Lhota's "hands-on approach and common-sense ideas" are right for his middle-class constituents in Queens.

Councilman Vincent Ignizio pointed to the specific case of Fresh Kills Landfill, crediting Lhota with fulfilling then-Mayor Rudy Giuliani's promise to close it. The fourth member of the delegation, Staten Island Councilman Jimmy Oddo, said that Lhota is "by far the superior candidate in the Republican primary."

Bronx County GOP Chairman Jay Savino and the executive committee of the Bronx County Republican Committee have also placed their support behind Lhota. Last week, two hours after former candidate Tom Allon dropped out of the race, reporters crashed a lunch Allon and Lhota were having in Midtown. Allon credited Lhota with much of his decision to drop out.

"One of the reasons I felt comfortable jumping out of the race is because I knew Joe jumped in," Allon said. "I feel that voters have a good choice now."

Not gloom of night nor slow Saturdays

The financially beleaguered Postal Service suffered a setback in its plan to end Saturday delivery of first-class mail as Congress on Thursday passed legislation requiring six-day delivery. The Postal Service, which lost $16 billion last year, had announced last month its plan to switch to five-day mail service to save $2 billion annually.

No law requires the Postal Service to deliver mail six days a week, but Congress has traditionally included a provision in legislation to fund the federal government each year that has prevented the Postal Service from reducing delivery service.

House Republicans on Thursday approved a stopgap spending bill to avoid a government shutdown, in a further easing of the partisan budget wars that have consumed Washington for months.

The Republican-controlled House voted 318-109 to approve legislation that keeps government agencies and programs funded through the end of the fiscal year on Sept. 30, sending the measure to President Barack Obama to be signed into law. REUTERS

THE GETAWAY

Despite the big fancy jet, the legions of aides and the squadrons of guards, I still think going on a trip as president of the United States would be a drag. Oh sure, you get to scoot around those long security lines while shouting "How's that sequester working out?" But when you arrive, you can't just grab a Starbucks, get the rental car and tool down to the beach.

You have to shake hands, listen to bad bands playing "Hail to the Chief" and trot off to crowded receptions and dimly lit dinners. You have to mind your manners every moment for fear of provoking an international incident ("Honestly, I thought it was a cat!") and heaven forbid that you purchase a movie at the hotel, if you know what I mean.

Worst of all, the only reason you get to go to many places is that there are problems awaiting your attention. And this week, President Obama waded right into a whole pile of them.

Even in that troubled part of the world we call the Middle East, these are disturbing times.

The Israelis and the Palestinians seem utterly disinterested in any sort of talks.

The Syrians have been waging open battle for two years.

Iraq is celebrating the 10-year anniversary of war with a spate of violence. And if the White House is right, Iran is crouching in the corner quietly building a nuclear weapon while steadfastly telling the world, "Pay no attention to that man behind the curtain!"

So whether you are a fan of this president or not, you could sympathize when he responded to a reporter's question about the quest for peace with "Ultimately, this is a really hard problem."

It is hard to know what the White House honestly even expects out of this trip. The possibilities for any sort of progress are so hideously limited, the administration was wise to down play expectations. And in the end, like a lot of getaways, I suspect the best part for the president will be coming home.

'Admission'

Director: Paul Weitz
Stars: Tina Fey, Paul Rudd
Rating: PG-13
Grade: 100%
 Admissions officer Tina Fey has worked at Princeton for 16 years and with professor/twit Michael Sheen for 10. She fits an idealistic alternative high school run by Paul Rudd, who says he's figured out his freakishly bright student Nat Wolff is Fey's kid, who she put up for adoption. As public awareness of student debt — as America's next great financial crisis — grows, a movie about an Ivy League school in which money isn't mentioned comes off tone-deaf. There's token jabs at unimaginative admissions processes which favor tidy, extracurricular-packed applications from heavily coached students, but no serious jabs. Still, it's nice to see a movie that trots out words like "autodidact" without apology and earnestly believes in the value of a liberal arts education, even if it's not clear who's hiring on the other side. VADIM RIZOV modern actor to have. But there's never been anybody like him." Eckhart pines for a radically different era of screen acting. "They had multiple partnerships: Cary Grant and Katharine Hepburn, Katharine Hepburn and Spencer Tracy. They got to know each other. So they were comfortable together. In movies today you don't get to know the person you're working with as well as you'd like."

But today's actors are judged by versatility, forever required to stretch their talents. "The most important part about being an actor is being truthful. It really doesn't matter what I play, even if it's the president," he says. "You want to do different things, too. I've done big and small. I've been a pedophile, I've been a war hero. There's not much I won't do."

Eckhart has done his share of action movies, including "Olympus," which is "Die Hard" in the White House. Eckhart's prez is kidnapped during a siege by rogue North Korean terrorists and has to be saved by secret service agent Gerard Butler. "Every movie's an action movie. I don't care if it's a drama or a romantic comedy. You're playing around. Everything's a struggle."

Playing the president required him to craft his ideal head of state. "I want somebody to look at me and feel confident, to feel like they elected the right guy, to feel like I was capa-

Villains: Just

▶ Playing villains or heroes come from the same place, Eckhart says.

"The main challenge of being an actor is to be multidimensional, to be a whole person. Whether you're the protagonist or the antagonist, you still have a life. You still have parents. You still have to put gas in the car. If audiences believe that, then they'll get past the fact that he's cutting people into little pieces. They'll start going back to the history and ask why he's cutting people up. And that's when you're more fulfilled as an audience member. A villain can laugh as well as cry. A villain can be tender and compassionate."

ble and honest, speaking truthfully to them. I wanted to be someone who was not easily coerced, that I wasn't corrupted."

Of course, there's also the fear of being typecast. Early in his career Eckhart voiced concern about relentless villain roles. "I'm still conscious of that. When you're playing the villain where you're sort of trying to take down something, it's not so interesting." Typecasting isn't always bad: Cary Grant got to play charming men of refinement. Villains can be less fun. "Being a villain, you have to deal with so many hard-core emotional issues. You spend a lot of time reading the diary of Jeffrey Dahmer and stuff like that. And it gets old after awhile. Basically you're hanging out with a bunch of s—heads."

Film fest: A first look

Show biz kids

Emerging — or sometimes only semi-recently established — talent is the bread and butter of "New Directors/New Films," now in its 42nd year. Films from all over the world appear in its latest iteration, held at the Lincoln Center and the Museum of Modern Art, with images ranging from on-the-loose raccoons to graphic murders recreated by old men.

► 'The Act of Killing': The surly men who in the '60s helped murder half a million in Indonesia following a failed coup are, when pressed, not only casually remorseless but boastful of their bloody handiwork. Director Joshua Oppenheimer skips a conventional approach, instead asking them to recreate their deeds and utter some of the least humane sentences ever uttered on film. Alternately a nightmare and a dark comedy, it's a testament to how when the baddies win, evil simply becomes the norm.

► 'A Hijacking': Tobias Lindholm's eerily calm hostage drama, culled from an actual case, takes an unsexy look at a hostage situation, methodically telling of a cargo ship seized by pirates. Emotions, says one character, lead to mistakes, and this one fumbles only on the happily few times it goes for anything but the grimy, urine-soaked facts.

► 'Leones': First-timer Jazmin Lopez stole cinematographer Matias Mesa, who apprenticed on Gus Van Sant's "Gerry" and "Elephant," to stalk, in gliding long takes, a quintet of bored Argentine teens wandering through a forest. Are they lost? What's with the gash on the one girl's neck? The crypticism is more playful than impenetrable and, thanks to Mesa, the film is never not arresting.

► 'Upstream Color': Shane Carruth's time-travel cult monster "Primer" is often mistreated as a mere puzzle. The same has already happened to his belated follow-up, which makes even less sense. Carruth and Amy Seimetz play victims of a violent unknown event, and we can't even begin to summarize what happens. But even amid the nonstop confusion emerges a potent and weirdly gutting depiction of conjoined insanity, with characters struggling, like the audience, to grasp on to what's going on.

► 'Viola': Argentina's much-liked Matthias Pinero's latest crams a lot into a mere hour: multiple characters, interplay between stage and real life, even plot points borrowed from "Twelfth Night." Its "meaning" can be elusive, but the moment-by-moment pleasures are not.

Madeleine Peyroux classes up the classics

- ▶ With 'The Blue Room,' the jazz songstress takes an intimate approach to old favorites
- ▶ Finding her style is 'a lifelong process'

Madeleine Peyroux's voice is classic jazz, but with her new album, "The Blue Room," she's mixing in the twangy guitars and organ riffs of old-school country — courtesy of none other than Ray Charles. The album, made in close collaboration with producer Larry Klein, revisits many tracks from Charles' 1962 "Modern Sounds in Country and Western Music." Peyroux says she was inspired by Charles' capacity to make any song entirely his own.

"It's incredible to be a part of, really, to have this personal space of your own as a singer and an incredible backdrop to explore these songs in a different way," she says in a speaking voice that is as clear as her singing voice is smooth. "These are songs that I grew up with in various ways and various backgrounds. Starting with the original plan of paying homage to the Ray record is just an exciting place to start."

Why Ray Charles?

I think of him as being at the center of American music in the 20th century. Not just because of his incredible soul sound, but also because he brought in so many different sounds and styles. This record especially is an example of what I feel he did for a lot of American pop music — mixing it all together.

Lots of songs on this album like "Bye Bye Love" and "You Don't Know Me" have been interpreted so many times, but your versions are very "you." How do you find your style within the song?

It's a lifelong process because, like wearing a pair of jeans, it takes time to become a part of you. The goal really is to be able to do that with every song. Even though we change as people as we grow, so that our attitude to the interpretation might change, the goal is to do it right, to find a way that's going to work for who you are, no matter who you are. There are some songs that I can't really sing anymore and there are other songs that I couldn't sing when I was much younger that I can sing now.

Is there a particular song on this album that moves you more than any other?

They are all pretty powerful, and we have a lot of very strong ballads on this record — something that's not very common in the music business these days. "Bird on the Wire" probably takes the cake right now. It has the most powerful lyrics for me, and I am so glad I finally got to sing that song because I have been wanting to cover it for a long time now.

PLAYTIME AT LINCOLN CENTER

► Modern-dance master Paul Taylor takes the stage

► You have until Sunday to catch the Paul Taylor Dance Company.

Paul Taylor's opening night primarily evoked exasperation. The last modern-dance master, Taylor boasts a troupe of superlative performers and witty designers, but the material onstage was mostly lightweight.

The gala bill mingled samples from early to new works. The recorded music (Bach, New Orleans jazz, Offenbach) sounded a bit tinny on the speakers at what used to be the New York State Theater; its original tenants worked with live orchestras.

The show opened with "Junction," an athletic piece from 1961. To a Bach cello suite, eight dancers in color-block leotards tumbled across the stage; sometimes a woman balanced precariously on the body of a crouched man.

If you go

The juxtaposition of sleek physicality with the somber music was groundbreaking in its day.

Taylor's legendary "3 Epitaphs" is set to New Orleans funeral-march jazz. In dark leotards and helmets that obscured their faces, five dancers shrugged and shambled and leaned on one another, striking odd, simian poses that might be construed, if one were feeling testy, as racist portrayals.

The outfits sported tiny round mirrors on gloved hands and heads; this 1956 work prefigures later, better dances in which mirrors also flash light into viewers' eyes.

The pastoral "Perpetual Dawn" is a new piece that set peasants gambling in a meadow. For the most part men pursued maidens, though there were gender variations as well. Michelle Fleet often found herself alone. We've seen the structure and sentiments before from Taylor.

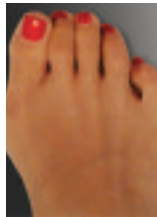

The jokey "Offenbach Overtures" completed the program. Taylor's unique take on Stravinsky's "Rite of Spring" is one of the 21 dances showing this season.

THE WORD

Dorothy Robinson's take on the world of gossip @dorothyatmetro dorothy.robinson@metro.us

Is this surfer Swift's new boyfriend?

Nothing makes me feel older than writing about Taylor Swift's love life, but here goes: The singer has reportedly set her sights on pro surfer John John Florence, according to Life & Style. The magazine reports that their budding relationship is still mostly on a telecommunications level.

"He and Taylor have been text-messaging," a source says. "Apparently she contacted him. I don't think they have hung out yet. They've just been chatting. John John doesn't want to ruin things, so he's being careful not to say too much." He's apparently taking that job very seriously. When asked by an Australian TV reporter earlier this month about "a little bit of something" she had heard about him and Swift, Florence responded, "It's kind of a secret thing going on right now. Can't bust it out in the public just yet."

So what do we know about John John? He's 20, from Hawaii and, according to Internet lore, started surfing with his father at 6 months and was riding on his own by 3. Judging from his photos, I wouldn't mind if Swift kept this up — we need more hunky surfers in The Word.

► Beyonce is on fire in her new ad campaign with H&M.

H&M teams up with Beyonce

H&M has just released its new summer ad campaign featuring Beyonce. "I've always liked H&M's focus on fun and affordable fashion," she says in a press release. Mrs. Carter collaborated with the brand to create the television and print ads, which are meant to "explore the different emotions of women represented by the four elements — fire, water, earth and wind." The collection, which includes body-con dresses, sundresses and bikinis, hits stores in early May.

Talking points

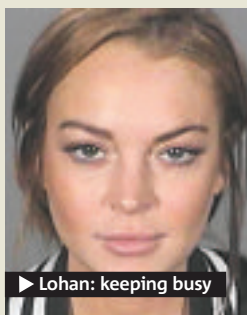

KStew and RPatz reunite in LA

Kristen Stewart and Robert Pattinson are reunited after his latest stint filming in Australia, and the couple reportedly celebrated by hitting up their favorite local dive bar, L.A.'s Ye Rustic Inn, according to E! News. "They seemed really happy to be with each other. Rob and Kristen were having so much fun together," a source says. "They sat in the back of the bar in a booth and were laughing. At one point, they were standing at the bar and were just being normal, as any boyfriend and girlfriend would be with each other. They were touchy-feely. She was holding on to his jacket and had her hand on his back. They were just being cute."

Lohan moves on in her dating life

Lindsay Lohan is facing 90 days in rehab, but that doesn't mean she can't keep cultivating her love life. The troubled starlet is rumored to be dating NYC club promoter and musician Avi Snow, according to E! News, though sources say the pair's relationship is still in "the early stages." But he certainly seems to be getting a lot of time with Lohan before she gets locked up: Snow was reportedly one of the passengers on the private jet that whisked Lohan to court Monday morning, and after she had her latest mug shot taken the next day, she hurried over to a show Snow's band put on at a private Santa Monica club.

► Lohan: keeping busy

Will Gosling take an acting vacation?

Bad news for Ryan Gosling fans: The "Place Beyond the Pines" star is planning to take a break from acting, according to the Huffington Post. "I've been doing it too much. I've lost perspective on what I'm doing. I think it's good for me to take a break and reassess why I'm doing it and how I'm doing it," he says. "I need a break from myself as much as I imagine the audience does."

► Hey, girl, Ryan Gosling might take some time off. Try not to weep too much.

Horoscope

Aries March 21-April 19. As long as you don't expect Rome to be built in a day, your chances for getting much of your work completed are excellent. In fact, what you do finish will be of superior quality.
Taurus April 20-May 20. Friends can ask favors of you that they dare not ask of others. They know you're the kind of person who'll help out in any way you can.
Gemini May 21-June 20. Your popularity is trending upward. Even those who have treated you shabbily in the past are likely to suddenly shower you with friendship.
Cancer June 21-July 22. You should focus your attention and efforts on meaningful objectives. Some of your larger goals can be reached at this time, if you make the effort.

Leo July 23-Aug. 22. Regardless of what is going on in your life, maintain a philosophical outlook. By keeping your attitude positive, you'll be able to get the best of any negative situation.
Virgo Aug. 23-Sept. 22. Some significant benefits might come your way, but they won't be of your own making. Opportunities that seem tailor-made for your situation will drop right into your lap.
Libra Sept. 23-Oct. 23. If you need to make a difficult decision, seek a friend who has previously offered you wise advice. This person holds the correct solution to your problem.

♏ Scorpio Oct. 24-Nov. 22. Adequate help will manifest for a difficult development that you thought you would have to manage on your own. Take advantage of it.
♐ Sagittarius Nov. 23-Dec. 21. Being bold and enterprising could cause others to think that you're taking huge, unwise risks. However, you'll be aware of your limitations and will act accordingly.
♑ Capricorn Dec. 22-Jan. 19. The nearer you get to fulfilling your expectations, the luckier you'll become. You merely need to be determined to get what you want.
♒ Aquarius Jan. 20-Feb. 19. Your best asset will your ability to improve upon the ideas of others. For better or for worse, you'll be able to make your co-workers' schemes better.

♈ Pisces Feb. 20-March 20. Conditions continue to look extremely impressive where your financial interests are concerned. Keep searching for new ways to add to your income. Lady Luck will help.

Subway readers just crazy about Metro

I am so very sick and tired of all of the people on the subway that feel as though it's a life or death situation if they don't read Metro before they get to their destination.

The subway is always packed in the morning and everyone trying to turn pages (while the paper gets much too close in my personal space) is going to eventually cause a serious problem!

I have asked several people nicely and not so nicely to move the paper out of my face and it just seems as though they are oblivious to the people in their surroundings.

There was a time when people just sat on the subway and enjoyed the ride, but because everyone acts like robots and does what they see everyone else doing we now have this issue.

Don't get me wrong, I appreciate the free paper just as much as the next person, but come on people and have some damn respect!

TRACEY HARVEY, VIA E-MAIL

Editor's note: We're having a hard time seeing this as a problem.

"I wish that President Obama would take a strong stand for peace between Israel and Palestine, and refuse any aid until the building of settlements ceases and a viable Palestinian state is established in the West Bank and Gaza."

SHIFRA FREWOMAN, VIA E-MAIL

It's still sexism if it's reversed

RE: "KMFD's POWER FEMINISM" (METRO, MARCH 21) KMFD's Sascha is not a feminist. Real feminism is not about male bashing, it's about equal rights for all. To categorically describe "men as just dumb" is an insult to all humanitarians. Misandrist comments are as hurtful to others as misogynist comments and should not be applauded by feminists or Metro; they should be rebuked.

Iona, Jones look for NCAA redemption

► Gaels choked away biggest tourney lead ever in 2012 ► Star guard ready to change fate this season ► Ohio State lies in wait

Iona has waited a year to get the sour taste of a 25-point choke against BYU out of its mouth.

It was in the play-in round last year, as a No. 14 seed, that the Gaels ran out to a seemingly insurmountable lead. Only it wasn't, of course. BYU staged the largest comeback in NCAA tournament history in the second half. They knocked off the Gaels, 78-72, and sent the team back to New Rochelle, N.Y. without even having a shot at playing in the true Big Dance.

"[We] just use it as motivation," head coach Tim Cluess told reporters after the brackets were revealed last Sunday. "Make them understand that every possession matters — not just on the offensive end, but on the defensive end."

Lamont Jones played

Robin to Scott Machado's Batman on last year's team, but he's back this season, now the MAAC Player of the Year one year after Machado took the crown. Jones was 3-of-14 from the field and scored just six points in that loss to BYU. He doesn't need to be reminded.

"I think we got so comfortable [with the 25-point lead]," Jones told reporters Sunday. "We let our foot off the pedal." ● METRO

Jeter will not return during spring training

Derek Jeter's spring training is over — at least with the big league club anyway.

Yankees general manager Brian told reporters in Tampa, Fla. on March 21 that Jeter would be shut down in order to back date a possible disabled list stint.

"I think we need to preserve the ability to backdate him in the event that he's not going to make it," Cashman said.

The team has yet to make a decision on whether the shortstop will be ready for the April 1 season opener. Cashman said earlier in the week that he would not rule out Jeter starting the season on the DL.

The 18-year veteran has other ideas.

"If I had to play, I would play," Jeter told reporters. "Everything is fine."

He received a cortisone shot in the ankle he broke last postseason on Wednesday.

Jeter is eligible to play in minor-league spring training games and still be placed on the disabled list back to March 21. ● METRO

Urlacher, Bears split gets ugly

The Bears' split with all-time franchise great Brian Urlacher continues to get ugly.

Chicago released the 13-year veteran on Wednesday after saying they couldn't come to a contract agreement. But Urlacher said Thursday he doesn't believe the team ever planned to resign him.

"The Bears didn't think I could play here anymore, and that's fine," Urlacher told ESPN.

GREEN HIGHLIGHTERS

There are certain things in life we need to have no matter what, like the latest Justin Timberlake album.

As fantasy baseball drafts get into full swing, we can't be afraid to splurge for the guys we want. Last year, Andrew McCutchen was a buzz guy who was thrown out by some as being "overdrafted." Big mistake. This year, these are the guys worth circling with a green highlighter and reaching for.

The natural

Bryce Harper was never a sleeper. He was the best 19-year-old in the history of baseball and will likely be the best 20-year-old ever as well. At this point, it's just a contest to see how high we're willing to take him. Considering Harper projects to see his homers and steals rise toward the 30/30 level as he matures, the end of the first round is not crazy. He'll be batting third, between Jayson Werth and Ryan Zimmerman.

Chapped up

When guys have dominant talent, we take them and let the chips fall where they may. Aroldis Chapman is a perfect example. He might start, he might close, he might be capped at 200 innings. No matter what, we know he's going to be an asset in fantasy.

Golden boy

Paul Goldschmidt burst onto the scene last year with 20 homers in 136 starts. That's child's play. In 2011, Goldy smashed 30 jacks in just 457 plate appearances while playing in Double-A. Now settling into an everyday role, the power upside is huge.

Danny Amendola is four years younger than Wes Welker, but two inches taller and capable of playing outside. Like Aaron Hernandez, he'll be a fantasy monster.

Sports in brief

Shumpert's knee checks out fine

NBA. The Knicks finally got some good news on the injury front as Iman Shumpert was cleared to return to action.

Shumpert, who tore his ACL in the playoffs last season, left the March 20 game against the Magic after he said he heard a "pop" in the surgically repaired knee.

But as opposed to so many other players on the Knicks this season, team doctors cleared him to play against the Raptors on March 22.

The team plays a home-and-home with Toronto on March 22 and 23, starting at the Raptors. ● METRO

Dodgers star Ramirez out 6-8 weeks

MLB. Starting shortstop Hanley Ramirez will be out up to two months after injuring his right thumb.

The injury, which occurred Tuesday in the World Baseball Classic championship game, will require surgery to repair a torn ligament.

Ramirez batted .271 with 10 homers in 64 games for the Dodgers after being traded from the Marlins on July 25 last season. ● METRO

Giants bring back Carr as Giants backup

NFL. The Giants announced the re-signing of David Carr to be Eli Manning's backup for the third straight season and fifth out of the last sixth.

Carr only threw three passes in two games last season (2-of-3, 19 yards) and none the year before. Manning currently holds the record for most consecutive starts by a quarterback.

H EAVENLY MAIDENS, BRAVE WARRIORS, MISCHIEVOUS MONKS AND, YES, EVEN A FLYING PIG! CHINA'S 5,000 YEARS OF CIVILIZATION HAVE YIELDED AN ENDLESS TREASURE TROVE OF LEGENDS, MYTHS AND LITERARY CLASSICS. THROUGH THE AWE-INSPIRING PAGEANTRY OF CLASSICAL CHINESE DANCE, SHEN YUN BRINGS THESE STORIES TO LIFE IN VIVID DETAIL. IT'S A PERFORMANCE THAT NOT ONLY ENTERTAINS, BUT ALSO, MORE BROADLY, EDUCATES AND INSPIRES.

“IT WAS ABSOLUTELY BEAUTIFUL ... SO INSPIRING!”

—ROBERT STROMBERG, ACADEMY AWARD-WINNING PRODUCTION DESIGNER FOR AVATAR

SHEN YUN'S AERIAL MASTERS

Throughout the 5,000 years of Chinese civilization, martial arts techniques—tempered on the field of battle—were incorporated into classical Chinese dance in what has become a vast repertoire of jumps, twists, spins and tumbling techniques. With Shen Yun's aerial masters of classical Chinese dance, experience what dance can be.

EXQUISITE COSTUMES, STUNNING ANIMATED BACKDROPS

Hundreds of gorgeous costumes inspired by China's diverse dynasties and ethnic groups, along with dramatic animated backdrops, transport the audience to another time and place.

A UNIQUE EAST-WEST ORCHESTRA

The Shen Yun Performing Arts Orchestra, with its unforgettable melodies by ancient Chinese instruments on top of a full Western symphony orchestra, is a one-of-a-kind musical experience.
